Read the following passage and answer the questions given after it.

Since Saturday, this house in a slum in Mumbai has seen a constant flow of visitors, all wanting to meet Aditya Rafukiya (16), who is back home after being reported missing nearly three years ago. Aditya was found in Gujarat last week, after a social worker read an online report on how his father, Bansi Rafukiya, a mechanic, had undertaken a tireless search for him across India.

In January this year, it was reported that Rafukiya had launched a fight against child labour, helping children on the streets to locate their parents — a mission he adopted after his son went missing from their home. Aditya, then a Class VI student aged 13, ran away from home in 2015, after being scolded by his parents for not studying.

Aditya was last spotted on CCTV cameras at Mumbai Central station's platform 4, wearing a red shirt and carrying his school bag. With no further leads, his father travelled to various destinations that the trains from Mumbai Central went to that day. "I went to all the stations those trains halted at to paste his posters," says Rafukiya.

Eventually, fearing that his son may have been trapped as a child labourer, Rafukiya became a social worker.

Last week, a call from Gujarat changed the mood in the Rafukiya household.

K S Ishrani, a social defence officer at a children's shelter in Jamnagar, called up Rafukiya and told him that his son had been living there for the last two years. "I didn't believe him at first, I asked them to send a photograph. I had already travelled to many cities on tip-offs that my son may be there," says Rafukiya. Ishrani sent him a photograph, and the family left for Jamnagar the same day. They returned with Aditya on Saturday.

Aditya narrated his story. "I had stolen Rs 1,100 from home before running away. I was scared, so I never returned. I even changed my name," he says. He first went to Ahmedabad, then Hyderabad, doing odd jobs to sustain himself. In 2016, he reached Jamnagar and found work in hotels and restaurants. Eventually, he was taken to a shelter home in Jamnagar. At the children's shelter. "He is a talented boy, but whenever we broached the subject of his family, he would get scared. We were afraid that if we pushed too hard, he may run away from here," Ishrani said.

Finally, last month, Aditya told about himself to a teacher. Another social worker searched online for reports of a missing boy named Aditya from Mumbai. He chanced upon an online report, which had Aditya's photograph and details of how his father was searching for him. "We called up his parents and asked them to come with his Aadhaar card," said Ishrani. When the social worker showed Aditya the report, he got emotional. "I cried all night. I thought they'd have forgotten me," he says. During his time at the children's shelter, Aditya won several sports competitions. Now in Class VIII, he plans to return to school immediately.

Read the following passage and answer the questions given after it.

Since Saturday, this house in a slum in Mumbai has seen a constant flow of visitors, all wanting to meet Aditya Rafukiya (16), who is back home after being reported missing nearly three years ago. Aditya was found in Gujarat last week, after a social worker read an online report on how his father, Bansi Rafukiya, a mechanic, had undertaken a tireless search for him across India.

In January this year, it was reported that Rafukiya had launched a fight against child labour, helping children on the streets to locate their parents — a mission he adopted after his son went missing from their home. Aditya, then a Class VI student aged 13, ran away from home in 2015, after being scolded by his parents for not studying.

Aditya was last spotted on CCTV cameras at Mumbai Central station's platform 4, wearing a red shirt and carrying his school bag. With no further leads, his father travelled to various destinations that the trains from Mumbai Central went to that day. "I went to all the stations those trains halted at to paste his posters," says Rafukiya.

Eventually, fearing that his son may have been trapped as a child labourer, Rafukiya became a social worker.

Last week, a call from Gujarat changed the mood in the Rafukiya household.

K S Ishrani, a social defence officer at a children's shelter in Jamnagar, called up Rafukiya and told him that his son had been living there for the last two years. "I didn't believe him at first, I asked them to send a photograph. I had already travelled to many cities on tip-offs that my son may be there," says Rafukiya. Ishrani sent him a photograph, and the family left for Jamnagar the same day. They returned with Aditya on Saturday.

Aditya narrated his story. "I had stolen Rs 1,100 from home before running away. I was scared, so I never returned. I even changed my name," he says. He first went to Ahmedabad, then Hyderabad, doing odd jobs to sustain himself. In 2016, he reached Jamnagar and found work in hotels and restaurants. Eventually, he was taken to a shelter home in Jamnagar. At the children's shelter. "He is a talented boy, but whenever we broached the subject of his family, he would get scared. He chanced upon an online report, which had Aditya's photograph and details of how his father was searching for him. द्विवेदी जी की हिन्दी साहित्य की भूमिका शुक्ल जी के जीवन-काल में ही 1940 ई. में निकली। उनकी दूसरी प्रसिद्ध पुस्तक कबीर 1942 ई. में प्रकाशित हुई। दोनों में शुक्ल जी की मान्यताओं का तीव्र खंडन था। शुक्ल जी ने भक्ति के उद्घव को भारत पर इस्लाम की विजय से जोड़ा था। उनके अनुसार हिन्दू जाति निराशा के कारण भगवान की भक्ति करने लगी। द्विवेदी जी ने भक्ति का सामाजिक-ऐतिहासिक आधार प्रस्तुत करते हुए घोषणा की कि यदि इस्लाम न आया होता तो भी हिन्दी साहित्य का अधिकांश वैसा ही रहता।
